

Pain Assessment in Hospital Emergency Departments: Insights from Family Carers of People Living with Dementia

Have you supported a family member living with dementia during a recent visit to a West Australian (WA) Emergency Department (ED)? We need your input!

Researchers are conducting a study to explore how pain is assessed and managed for people living with dementia in Emergency Departments in Western Australia. We are seeking family carers who are willing to share their experiences.

Your insights will help improve understanding of how clinicians recognise and respond to pain in people living with dementia in emergency care settings.

Who can participate?

You may be eligible if you:

- Are a family carer of a person living with dementia who are unable to self-report their pain
- Attended an Emergency Department together within the past 6 months
- Are willing to participate in a face-to-face or online interview

Creative thinkers made here.

What does participation involve?

- A 30-60 minute interview discussing your experience
- The interview will be audio-recorded for research purposes

Important information

- Participation in this study is voluntary and confidential.
- Participants will receive a $100 voucher as a token of appreciation for their time.

For more information or to express interest in participating, please contact:

For more details or to register your interest please contact:

Jemma Nuttall (Henderson) at jemma.henderson@ecu.edu.au or

Dr. Aaron Alejandro at a.alejandro@ecu.edu.au